

Thirsty Crow Story

Once upon a time, on a very hot day, a thirsty crow was flying around looking for water. But everywhere it searched, there was no water to be found. The poor crow was getting tired and desperately needed a drink.

After a long search, the crow finally saw a pitcher in a field. It felt hopeful and quickly flew down to check it out. However, when it reached the pitcher, it saw that there was just a little bit of water at the bottom, and the crow's beak couldn't reach it.

The crow didn't give up. It tried to tip the pitcher over, but it was too heavy. Then, the clever crow had an idea! It started picking up small stones one by one and dropping them into the pitcher.

As the crow dropped more and more stones into the pitcher, something amazing happened. The water level started to rise! The crow kept dropping stones until the water was high enough for it to take a drink and quench its thirst.

Thanks to its clever thinking and persistence, the crow found a way to get the water it needed. And with its thirst quenched, the crow happily flew away.
